Re memo of SA [redacted] dated 1/11/82.

A review of the records of the Everett, Washington, Police Department and Snohomish County Sheriff's Office, regarding [redacted]
[redacted] reflected no arrest record other than a [redacted]
[redacted] from Everett, Washington, Police Department. No information could be obtained which would indicate that [redacted]

[redacted] attorney,
[redacted] a respected attorney in the Everett, Washington, area, feels very strongly that [redacted]
Contacts made with other individuals, as set forth below, failed to reflect any information to indicate that [redacted]

[redacted] It appears very unlikely that [redacted] could have been the individual involved in captioned matter as indicated by [redacted] Investigation set forth below tends to indicate that this would not be possible, however, [redacted] appears to sincerely believe [redacted] is the individual commonly referred to as D.B. Copper. Some of the facts related by [redacted] to support his belief were shown to not be true and when confronted with this, [redacted] appeared to want to discredit the information, refuting what he believes to be actual facts.

Records of the Everett, Washington, Police Department, and Snohomish County Sheriff's Office, contained no record identifiable with [redacted] The records of both agencies do reflect an extensive arrest record for [redacted] also known as [redacted] [redacted] date of birth [redacted] The arrest record dates back to [redacted] and shows arrests as recently as [redacted] None of the arrests resulted in any type of felony prosecution and most relate to various [redacted]

[redacted] in the area and went out of business during 1970, when the housing market fell apart in this area.

On 4/13/82. [redacted]

Lynnwood, Washington, telephone number [redacted] advised that his company provided the financial backing for [redacted], a company [redacted]

[redacted] noted that he had been contacted several years ago by someone from the FBI who was at that time investigating whether or not [redacted] was possibly identical to the individual commonly referred to as D.B. Copper. [redacted] could not recall who from the FBI had contacted him regarding this matter, but assumed that the FBI had decided that [redacted] was not identical to D.B. Copper.

[redacted] advised that [redacted] foreclosed on [redacted] when [redacted] went out of business. [redacted] advised that he had not seen [redacted] since shortly after that time. He advised that he believes [redacted] stayed in the Snohomish County, Washington, area working and he believes [redacted] went to work for Eastside Garbage Disposal in Bellevue, Washington, as a [redacted]. He advised that he does not know long [redacted] worked for Eastside Disposal but heard that [redacted] had thereafter returned to California where he was working in some unknown capacity. [redacted] advised that he was aware that [redacted] had come to the State of Washington sometime during 1968, from California.

[redacted] advised that he knew [redacted] very well. He was shown a composite of the individual known as D.B. Copper and he advised that the composite, in his opinion, did not look anything like [redacted] described [redacted] as being tall and slim, at least 6'0" and more likely 6'2" to 6'3". [redacted] advised that the last known address he had for [redacted] was [redacted], Kirkland, Washington. He advised that [redacted] in Bellevue, Washington, represented [redacted]. He advised that [redacted] had a certified public accounting firm handling the accounting business for [redacted]. He advised that the firm was out of San Diego, California, and the [redacted] doing the work was [redacted]. He advised that [redacted] had a bank account at Newport Balboa Savings and Loan, Babloa, California. He had a life insurance policy with Empire Life Insurance Company and was supposedly retired from the United States Coast Guard. He advised that [redacted] name is [redacted].

[redacted] advised that he has no reason to believe [redacted] would possibly be the individual known as D.B. Copper. He advised that he was not aware that [redacted] was taking any type of parachute or skydiving lessons. He advised that he had heard, from unknown source, that [redacted] had formerly been a pilot with

Catalina Airlines somewhere in California.

[redacted] Snohomish Airport, Snohomish, Washington, was contacted and he advised that he has been in business since [redacted]. He advised that he is [redacted] Snohomish County, Washington. [redacted] advised that he has records pertaining to all students who have taken skydiving or parachuting lessons through his club since [redacted]. A review of these records showed no indication that anyone by the name of [redacted] had ever taken any type of lessons. [redacted] advised that he is familiar with a great many of his students and cannot ever recall anyone by the name of [redacted] being a student. He advised that he is certain this individual did not take lessons under the name of [redacted] or his records would have reflected this.

[redacted] Everett, Washington, telephone number [redacted] was contacted and he advised that during [redacted] in the Everett, Washington, area. He advised that [redacted] and [redacted] and he knew both of them fairly well. He advised that [redacted] went out of business during 1971, and he has not seen [redacted] since that time. He advised that he does not know where [redacted] is currently located but heard he had returned to California where he had originally came from. [redacted] advised that he was not aware that [redacted] may have taken parachute or skydiving lessons. He advised that he does not recall ever asking [redacted] or anyone else why they were taking skydiving or jumping lessons. He advised he would not have done this because he had never heard this. He advised that he does not know why [redacted] would indicate that he had made such a comment or had such information. [redacted] advised that he does not have anything that would indicate [redacted] would possibly be D.B. Copper other than the fact that he did leave the Everett, Washington, area sometime around the time of the D.B. Copper incident. [redacted] was shown the composite drawings of the individual commonly referred to as D.B. Copper and he advised that they did not look anything like [redacted]. He noted that [redacted] was tall and of slender build. He advised that [redacted] was at least 6'1" and very likely a couple of inches taller.

[redacted] Lake Stevens, Washington, telephone number [redacted] was contacted and he advised that he had no information which would lead him to believe that [redacted] could possibly be identical to the individual referred to as D.B. Copper. He advised that during [redacted] he worked for [redacted] in the Everett, Washington, area. He advised that [redacted] of this company and he knew [redacted] very well. He was shown a composite drawing of the individual referred to as D.B. Copper and advised that he did not feel this looked anything like [redacted]. He noted that [redacted] was very tall, over 6'0", and slender. He further advised that the type of stunt that D.B. Copper was involved in did not seem to be the type of thing that [redacted] would get involved in. He advised that he had heard that [redacted] was a pilot in the military at one time, however, never heard anything about [redacted] being involved as a skydriver or parachute jumper. [redacted] advised that he does not recall any type of incident where someone had jumped out of an airplane over one of their job sites and he had conversation in this regard with some of the other employees. He advised that he does not know why [redacted] would indicate that this incident had occurred. He advised that he has, in the past, heard [redacted] talk about the fact that [redacted] believed [redacted] could be D.B. Copper. [redacted] advised that this type of talk had always simply went in one ear and out the other as he considered [redacted] to be the type of individual who liked to dream about things like that.

On 4/30/82, [redacted] was recontacted and advised that the above individuals had been contacted and failed to support the story he had previously given to the FBI, and which is reflected in referenced communication. [redacted] seemed very frustrated when he received this information and indicated that he felt the individuals simply were not being cooperative for some reason, and insisted the information he had provided was true and accurate and that he knew an attorney who could verify some of this information. He advise that he would contact the attorney and then furnish the information to the FBI. [redacted] provided a letter, dated 5/3/82, wherein he indicates that [redacted] who had previously [redacted] was present and overheard [redacted] talking about his plot in captioned matter. A copy of this letter is attached hereto.

On 5/21/82, [redacted], Bellevue, Washington, telephone number [redacted] was contacted. [redacted] advised that he was the [redacted] [redacted] advised that he has never overheard any conversations by anyone, including [redacted] planning an operation such as the one in captioned matter. He advised that he has never had any reason to suspect [redacted] of being involved in captioned matter. He advised that he has no reason to believe [redacted] could or would have been involved in captioned matter. He advised that he does not know [redacted] or why [redacted] would indicate that he was present when such a conversation took place. [redacted] advised that he does not know the current whereabouts of [redacted] but believes [redacted] returned to the San Diego, California, area after [redacted] went bankrupt in the State of Washington. He advised that [redacted] worked for a short period of time as a [redacted] for a garbage collection company in Bellevue, Washington, and thereafter, returned to California. He advised that he does not know exactly when this occurred, however, [redacted] went bankrupt during the early months of 1971, and [redacted] probably would have returned to California sometime during the fall or winter of 1971. He advised that he does not know how to get in touch with [redacted] at this time but believes [redacted] is currently getting some type of retirement pension from the United States Coast Guard.

In view of the above information, it appears very unlikely that [redacted] is the individual commonly referred to as D. B. Copper in captioned matter. No further investigation is being contacted in this matter at the Everett Resident Agency and any further leads to locate [redacted] such as through the United States Coast Guard, or to further discredit the information provided by [redacted] is being left to the discretion of the case agent at Seattle, Washington.

[] and the pilot went to two other men there and proposed to them that they go along as witnesses. One of these men's names was []. If these men went along as witnesses they could cloud the issue, give false testimony and screw the whole thing up so on one could really know what the heck was going on.

There were several other meetings held - same group, same area, same people. [] had not really been associated with this group meeting here, so what they decided to do was to sneak in a back way. One of the other people who was approached in this group happened to be familiar with the plan and said he would go along with them.

The plan that they finally come up with was to demand more than three to four chutes and then take the plane into Nevada. Just as they were coming into Reno they were to bail out. Their plan was to tether the chute to the back of the aircraft, hold it open and jump out when the point was right. In six months, then, they would split up the money.

The group was to throw a benefit over at the hospital in a big clearing down amongst [redacted]. They would have jugglers and this kind of thing. This would give the group an excuse to be there. They would then divide the money.

They kept changing the plan all the time to make it better. Finally, they figured they would just fill all the seats in the back section. All the guys wanted to get in on it as witnesses, too. It was kind of catching. They would go along and split up their shares. I believe it was split up four ways.

[redacted] would take part of the money, cash it around the country and then he would give either the guys or the pilot the clean money six months later.

b7C

Part of the plan was that one of the guys who had a car with California plates on it (I think it was [redacted]) would park it uptown someplace, or along the road leading into a place where there would be a lot of cars around. The plan got kind of elaborate. It ended up they would get a bunch of green stamps, a certain number, which they would fold up. They would then use the numbers/letters on the green stamps to indicate the license number of the car. The plan they ended up with was simply to take a large number of green stamps where they would be the only ones to have that number/letter on them. One of the guys was able to do that. I think this is important. He was able to get that section of green stamps. I think it was $2,500 or $500, or something of this nature. The plan ended where they wrote with a felt pen the license number of the car that [redacted] would be in, then they would go along and get in the car at a later time. He was to leave the window open in his car and then he would stick them in through the window. The meeting ended up that the green stamps actually got wrapped around his windshield wiper and they got together that way.

The pilot and the stewardess also had a part in it. She had control of the seating. She would get on the aircraft early and also they would be seated in the back section. She also had the keys to a locker where they would store the parachutes to make it look like he had parachuted earlier. They had planned to disguise [redacted] as a woman because he had [redacted]

b6

[redacted] They disguised him. [redacted] did not know whether he could make this jump or not, so they had to bring another man in. They went out and searched for somebody outside the group. They did not like to do that, but they found a guy who would jump out of the plane with the money. This man liked the plan. One of the group brought him in the back way. He came in at the very last minute.

In the end, [redacted] decided to go ahead and do it himself. The outsider who was brought in to make the jump was named [redacted] He also had Oriental blood in him. [redacted] already knew about the plan now. So, [redacted] pipes up and says, [redacted] So, [redacted] was to take several thousand dollars. He was also to meet [redacted] on the ground when [redacted] came out of the plane so that if anything happened [redacted] could help [redacted] get away. [redacted] was to take several thousand dollars to a place that one of the guys knew about up along the Columbia. He was to plant it there to be found and to throw everyone off this well laid plan.

TAC

b6

The time now comes down to the pilot's job. He was to take the plane and fly it over to the landing lights. He was to come in across the first beacon (the light on the end of the tall pole), hold to the left side and then they were to bail out, then he was to bring it back in.

Part of the plan was that [redacted] was to have someone on the ground. They were to give his share of the money right away upon landing. [redacted] would have that because he did not want to wait the six months. He would have it cashed through his connections in Reno and there would be no trace back to him. It would be done practically before the plan ever got down on the ground. That was another man who was in on it. This man was known to [redacted]

Aboard the plane, they were all seated. They had filled up the back section with their people. At the very last minute two other guys came in just because they wanted to go along for the ride. These other two were not even going to get a share. There were several that knew about the plan. These guys paid for their own tickets and were up in the other section, which made it even better. The plane filled up with passengers. The reason for taking this flight at the last minute - Thanksgiving Eve or whenever it was - was because this flight from Seattle to Portland was the only time when the airline would allow a husband and wife team to fly on the same plane. At least one guy at the airline knew the pilot and stewardess were married.

[redacted] came back in the plane and recognized several of the guys. He started talking to one of them sitting in the back section. He knelt down and said [redacted] [redacted] looks back and saw [redacted] sitting in the back seat. [redacted] said [redacted] [redacted] looks at the seat right behind where he is kneeling and said [redacted]

b6
b7C

"What are you guys doing? It looks like you - " It looked like he was going to blow the whole thing right there and so immediately the stewardess rushes him out. She said "Everybody take their seats back up there. You have to get back up there. We're going to take off." She ran him out and just on the way as she is pushing him out [redacted] comes back. She says "You have to take your seat. You can talk after the flight gets going." He said "[redacted] is aboard". [redacted] waves at [redacted] The stewardess runs both [redacted] and [redacted] out.

On taking off, they had agreed that the note was to be given to the stewardess who did not know what was going on because she would act more realistic. They got the money and people started getting off the plane. Some said they would stay aboard. Several in the back section got off the plane, plus the ones in the front section to make it look more realistic. There were those sitting in the back section who remained on the plane. At one point, the co-pilot comes back to see if [redacted] has bailed out and they tell him that he had. He says they could take seats up in the other section of the plane. One of them said he didn't want to move and the co-pilot said "Well, that's okay. Just stay in your seat." One or two of the guys, [redacted] included, moved up one seat. Everything went off just like they wanted it to.

b6

b6

in foreground When the pilot brought the plane in over that first light they were to deploy the chutes. One of the chutes, along with the money bag, were thrown into the river. They opened it up and handed [redacted] the money. He almost jumped without the money. He released it when they passed the marker they were supposed to. It was tethered in the plane to the back seat with a long strap. The remaining part of that was cut loose with a sharp knife brought along just for that purpose.

b6

On the ground, [redacted] comes down just a little bit past the marker light. There are two guys on the ground. [redacted] comes running over to him and says [redacted] says [redacted]

b6
b7C

He takes off running in the direction he had dropped the money. It was in a suitcase. They went over to the edge and from there they proceeded over to the cave. This cave is back away to the left some distance. [redacted] went in and turned on a small light he had in there. He had dug a place for the chute and to store part of the money. Their plan was to go around the country and cash it. He had [redacted] go out of the cave first and give [redacted] share to this other guy because he did not want him waiting around when he came out of the cave.

There is a place a short distance from the cave where [redacted] would hole up and live. He has been there before in making a movie or something of this sort at one time. I would describe it only as being a kind of little crossroad there. They have a little shack, like the sort of thing fruit pickers stay in. It is a dusty place. [redacted] stays here with his son. His [redacted] and he is about [redacted] years old. [redacted] called his son because he felt he was having a heart attack and he had his son go over to the cave. He described to the boy exactly what he wanted him to do. The son went in the cave and found the little shelf that his father had dug in the wall of the cave with the dirt packed in it. He has one chute over the top of the suitcase. The boy pulled the suitcase out. The parachute was also there. He was to cover them back up. The boy did what he was told only when he pulled the suitcase off the ledge he was in a hurry to get out of there and the suitcase edge caught on the parachute and pulled it out on the floor of the cave. The boy threw the suitcase out the opening and brought it back.

As the boy was coming back to where his dad was, there were some other kids playing around the crossroads. A kid came up and the son opened the suitcase and showed this kid all the money that was in it. There was not that much still in it. His dad called him from the doorway and told him to come on in. They soon took off from that place and the suitcase was left in the attic. It had only a business card in it with some initials, 3-4 sets of initials.

They then were to go to this meeting. They put on a [redacted] etc. in the [redacted] did not show at first. Finally he came, but he had not gotten all the money cashed. He thought he should have a bigger share of the money because now the FBI was notified by the guy who found the suitcase and they had spotted all this money. He felt that since the FBI knew who he was, or was on his tail, he should have a bigger share of the money to keep on the run, to keep out of their hands. It was important that he not be caught. I think most of them went along with that idea. Some of them had gotten their shares, but one share had not been passed. They arranged a place to pass money and information.

[redacted] would sneak in to see his wife on at least one occasion when she would go out in an observation room. He also had a place where he would leave money tucked in this room. At least one other patient knew what was going on.

At a later date, the pilot and stewardess, with two kids inbetween them, went into the [redacted]. They wanted to get in touch with [redacted] who spent her time in a large clearing where the hospital ran a bus down there. They thought that if they got in touch with her, they could get in touch with [redacted]. They did not want to be seen, so they took a back trail in. They were having a violent argument all the way in. She wanted him to let her have the money for her operation and he wanted his own share. She won out. His money, by the way, was the only money that was wanted in clean money and that is why his was the last to be turned over. [redacted] had not gotten it all cashed and transferred. The pilot and stewardess went into the clearing and passed 1-2 people on the trail going in. Mostly kids playing. There was a man who worked for the Forest Service or for whoever controlled this forest there, and he had a good speaking voice. He gave a perfect speel about the trees and nature. The stewardess and pilot stopped remarking how good his voice was and he should be an actor. The guide replied he was a [redacted] and people hired him for jobs such as this. The guide would tend to remember that conversation and that compliment. [redacted] (or something similar) just watching the trees. She spent most of her days there. The pilot took off to the edge of the clearing and was not going to say anything to her. The stewardess went around the edge of the [redacted] did not know her. The ranger introduced her to the stewardess as [redacted]. He then backed up a few steps. The stewardess started saying "Don't worry about the operation. Everything is going to be okay." She started to blurt out the whole thing. [redacted] got really nervous at that time and the stewardess again said "Don't worry about it." She referred to it as that other thing. The stewardesses went around to the foot of the [redacted] and met the pilot. She introduced him to [redacted] and they left the clearing. There were one or two other people in something that may have been a small vehicle at the edge of the clearing.

b7C

Later on [redacted] died. The people who came to the funeral picked up a picture album of [redacted] and family. They turned it over to other people who knew [redacted]. These people were also in on it. They knew the drop zone. They took the pictures over to the drop zone and left them. They also picked up the money. They decided they would throw the FBI off. They showed up at the site with a [redacted]. They did not tell [redacted] and did not have any way of getting in touch with him except through this drop zone. The pictures are probably still there.

I made an attempt to get in touch with the FBI in Medford in the first year after this had happened. I was told that the man handling it was in Portland. At that time, I did not have a phone. I dropped it at that time.

Later on, however, I realized that the FBI was saying that they knew who the person was, but they did not know his name. I instructed my secretary, the woman who was writing letters for me, to turn the information over on [redacted] to the FBI. She told me she took the letter and told the local FBI agent in Medford. I waited for some time and I never heard anymore about that. They never questioned me. I thought possibly they would.

DB Cooper-19295

Sometime later on, I realized through conversations I had overheard that someone knew about [redacted] who had witnessed what went on aboard the aircraft. A couple of men were talking in a group and said that he was the only one who could tie them in with that hijacking. They decided to eliminate him sometime in the future. There also was talk about getting rid of [redacted] who was also there. One of them said, "Well, [redacted] did not see us. He could not tie us in." They did not say how they were going to get rid of [redacted]. I knew this guy was now a cop someplace, but I did not know where.

b6
b7C

I tried again to get in touch with the FBI by writing them a letter. I wrote the letter myself - admittedly not a great letter. I related no more than I had to, trying to get them interested. I waited for a response, but got none. I just threw it away finally. Later on, I find out by seeing it in the newspaper that [redacted] the only witness, had had an attempt made on his life. His life was spared because he wore a bullet proof vest. With this information, I felt I should write him a letter and try to get in touch with him. I wrote to him in care of the Los Angeles Police Department. I did not hear anything.

The FBI had three agents out looking for the money after this thing in the field around these lights. I did see them spot the paracutie rigging that they had used, the strap which had been thrown over there. One of them started to pick it up and then another said, "Leave it there. We'll pick it up on the way back." There were a lot of parachutes in this area, so they just left it there and I believe they did pick it up later. Also, this same area, later on these guys went back to see if there was any money there. They were just looking around. They knew [redacted]. They were in on this thing. Possibly this is the gangster, the money changer that [redacted] had on the ground. Also, one of these parachutes was found by a young boy and he drug it out. It reached the floor of the cave where [redacted] went in to pick up the money. They spotted it later on. These other boys were in there playing with it. The parachutes had a dye mark or some kind of mark printing and there also was a swirl sewn over it, latest model of a colorful parachute. Also, there is another incident in which a couple of apparently FBI agents entered a cave in searching the area and one of them related that this particular cave had an entrance, doorway, in it where you could actually walk right in rather than climb. In this cave, about 10 ft. in there were a couple of real huge foot prints, several inches deep on the floor of the ~~cave~~. One of the men related "I wonder who those belong to?" The other one said, "Well, if we knew who those belonged to, we'd probably have our man." I go back now in time to when those foot prints were made. They were made by a man named [redacted]. He was in this cave and he was talking with this guy, who might have been [redacted]. I don't know, but [redacted] was in that area. He was describing the color of [redacted]. I have never heard of the color of [redacted]. He kept tapping himself on the chest the way he does, jumping up and down saying, [redacted]. He could not figure out what he was talking about. Then he explained it to him and he said, "Well, I've never heard of it." At that time, there was a lot of water and the ground was real soft. Apparently another layer of the roof had just come down to make it sandy. He made these big foot prints. [redacted] will go back to an incident down in Southern California in which this [redacted] who plays the [redacted] on TV. At that time, he was struggling as an actor and he also owned a small grocery store. Up above him there was a K-Mart that opened up. Of course, that took all his business away from him. He could not make it in the grocery. [redacted] was one of

b6
b7C

RAC DB Cooper-19296

his customers. That is the end of that incident. Another incident that happens after the hijacking is that [redacted] is hiding out in a rich guy's house in Southern California I believe. There is a guy who plays the [redacted]. This guy comes in late at night and while this rich guy is gone on vacation he is letting [redacted] camp out there at the house until he gets back. I don't think that guy knows what was going on, but he could have. This guy that plays the [redacted] he comes in there at night. He know [redacted] was having a rough time earlier. He had given him a little help, he thought. He gave him a couple of old johns, a sink and a toilet, that he no longer needed in building his new house because they decided to live in a trailer or something. He apparently knows this guy and this guy apparently knew what was going on. That's the end of that incident. I believe there was a small school bus, an older one, that [redacted]. He was using that I believe at the time of at least a 6-8 month period. That's all for that. The latest is that I overheard a conversation that was really distressful. In part it had to do with the pilot. He had actually went to his boss or someone high in the airline and explained to him. His boss' reply was, "How could you get mixed up with these people?" Then I think they tried to quiet down the fact that he was married to the stewardess and they recalled the reward which really makes the airline guilty themselves. He also said that, "Well, maybe this FBI agent seems like a reasonable guy. Maybe if we said something to him that we didn't want....."

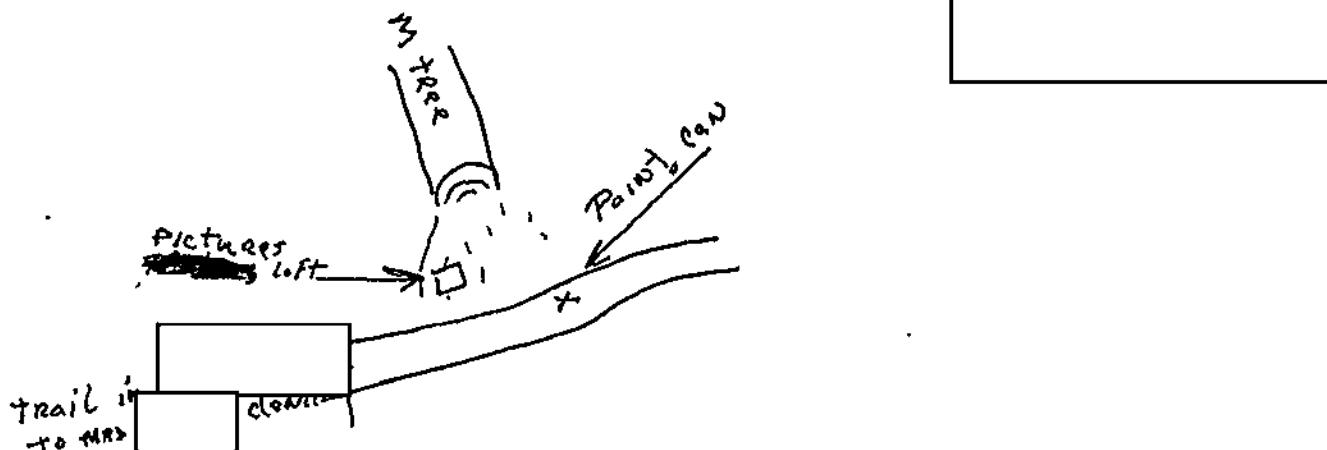

[redacted] worked for the FBI [redacted] At the end of one, on [redacted] he and [redacted] made a [redacted] He was able to buy a copy of this.

In Virginia City at an Albertson's store a man buys a large snow removal machine. This same man is later told by another man that the air line is not going to prosecute, so stay here and do not spend more money in large sums. He said that all he spent was for the snow machine. He lives in a complex of some kind.

Cooper scooper: Scraps may hint at D.B.'s skyjack fate

PORLAND. (UPI) — A tattered piece of cloth-covered nylon, a piece of rope and a bone scooped from the Columbia River's bottom were on their way yesterday to an ex-FBI agent who hoped they might provide a tantalizing clue to the whereabouts of legendary skyjacker D.B. Cooper.

Blake Payne of Florence, Ore., sent the items to ex-FBI agent Richard Tosaw, a Ceres, Calif., lawyer who is writing a book about Cooper's mysterious disappearance while trying to find out what happened to the fugitive who pulled off the world's first aerial hijack for ransom.

"Most authorities decided long ago that the man listed on passenger lists as Dan Cooper probably was killed when he strapped $200,000 to his waist, buckled on a military parachute and bailed out of a Northwest Airlines Boeing 727 over southwest Washington on a rainy Thanksgiving Eve in 1971."

A Northwest legend has grown around Cooper's daring escape, the nation's only unsolved hijacking, which led to heightened security procedures at airports throughout the country.

The only concrete clues to Cooper's fate so far have been some tattered bills from the ransom money dug up along the shore of the Columbia in February 1980.

Payne, skipper of the fishing boat "Magnum," was hired by Tosaw last month to dredge the bottom of the Columbia between Portland and Vancouver, Wash., in the plane's flight path.

"He's been raking the river with a 12-foot rake," he calls it a "Cooper Snooper" — from the stern of his boat. Tosaw said yesterday in a phone interview.

Using that rake, Payne Thursday found a nylon cord that he's sending to Tosaw, the lawyer said yesterday. Payne described it as white nylon "about the size of the cord that Cooper took from the spare chest parachute on board to tie the money bag around his waist before he jumped," Tosaw said.

"We're interested in examining it to see if there's any indication it's part of Cooper's gear," he said. "He had asked for the money in a knapsack but they gave it to him in a canvas mail pouch type of bag without any handles."

Tosaw said Payne "also found a piece of canvas which we want to look at because it could be part of the parachute. The heavy canvas part could be part of the harness."

He said he will ask Earl Cossey of Seattle, who packed the parachutes used by Cooper, to look over the find and help determine its validity.

The bone probably has no connection at all, the lawyer said, adding that he was not sure if it was human or not.

Whether or not the clues prove to have merit, Tosaw said he will keep up the search, which already has cost him $10,000 in the past two months. A major find couldn't hurt sales of Tosaw's book, which he plans to publish in two months, called "D.B. Cooper: Dead or Alive?"

D.B. COOPER ENTHUSIAST PLANS TO CONTINUE SEARCH PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) - A FORMER FBI AGENT, FASCINATED BY THE 11-YEAR-OLD LEGEND OF SKYJACKER D.B. COOPER, PLANS TO SEARCH THE COLUMBIA RIVER WHERE HE BELIEVES THE STILL-MISSING COOPER LEFT SOME OF THE $200,000 RANSOM.

RICHARD TOSAH ALSO HAS ENTERED INTO AN AGREEMENT WITH FOUR BROTHERS WHO OWN FARM LAND WEST OF PORTLAND TO SEARCH AN AREA IN WHICH PART OF THE $200,000 RANSOM PAID BY NORTHWEST AIRLINES ON THANKSGIVING EVE 1971 WAS FOUND.

AN 8-YEAR-OLD BOY PICNICKING WITH HIS FAMILY ON A BEACH ON THE PAZIO BROS. PROPERTY FOUND MOTTLED PACKETS CONTAINING $5,800 IN $20
BILLS, THE ONLY MONEY RECOVERED FROM THE SKYJACKING.

TOSAH, A CERES, CALIF., PROBATE ATTORNEY WRITING A BOOK ON THE SKYJACKING, WANTS TO START SEARCHING NOV. 24 - THE 11TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE DAY A MAN USING THE NAME COOPER BAILED OUT OF A NORTHWEST BOEING 727
WITH THE MONEY APPARENTLY STRAPPED AROUND HIS BODY IN ONE OF THE SPARE PARACHUTES HE DEMANDED..

PASSENGERS OFF IN SEATTLE AND ORDERED THE CREW TO STAY IN THE COCKPIT AREA AND FLY HIM TO RENO, Nev., WITH THE RANSOM MONEY HE GOT FROM THE AIRLINE.

HE PARACHUTED FROM THE PLANE'S REAR DOOR. THE FBI COMPUTED HE LANDED IN THE LAKES MERRIMAC AREA NORTHEAST OF VANCOUVER, WASH.

TOSAH, WHO LEFT THE FBI BEFORE THE SKYJACKING, BECAME INTERESTED IN THE CASE AFTER THE MONEY WAS FOUND AND DECIDED COOPER LANDED NEARBY, SOME NINE MILES WEST OF VANCOUVER.

HE WANTS SOMEONE TO DRAG THE RIVER WITH GRAPPLING HOOKS TO TRY TO SNAG COOPER'S PARACHUTE, HIS BODY OR ANYTHING ELSE THAT DIVERS COULD THEN CHECK.

"MY THEORY IS THAT THE PARACHUTE WOULD BE EASIEST TO FIND BECAUSE IT'S 28 FEET ACROSS AND WITH NYLON CORDS AND A CANVAS HARNESS," TOSAH SAID.

HE FIGURES THE MONEY FOUND WAS CHURNED UP BY AN ARMY CORPS OF ENGINEERS' DREDGE WORKING THE AREA IN EARLY 1980.

TOSAH HAS WITHDRAWN A REWARD HE HAD OFFERED FOR FINDING ANY SIGN OF COOPER.

HE BELIEVES THE HIJACKER WAS AN EX-MILITARY MAN WITH PARACHUTE
TRAINING AND POSSIBLY A STRONG SWIMMER WHO COULD HAVE MADE IT TO SHORE
AFTER DUMPING THE CHUTE AND THE HEAVY MONEY BAG IN THE WATER.

1-18-82 12:56 AM

(WASH., CALIF.)
BY BARNEY LEREN.

(PORTLAND) Ore.: (UPI) - A TATTERED PIECE OF CLOTH-COVERED NYLON, A PIECE OF ROPE AND A BONE SCOPED FROM THE COLUMBIA RIVER MAY PROVIDE CLUES TO THE WHEREABOUTS OF SKYJACKER D.B. COOPER.

BLAKE PAYNE OF FLORENCE, Ore., MAILED THE ITEMS TO ex-FBI AGENT RICHARD TOSAW, A CERES, Calif., LAWYER WRITING A BOOK ABOUT COOPER'S MYSTERIOUS DISAPPEARANCE AFTER HE PULLED OFF THE WORLD'S FIRST AERIAL HIJACK FOR RANSOM 11 YEARS AGO.

"AS LONG AS IT'S RELATED TO THAT JUMP, I'LL FEEL WE'VE HIT PAYDIRT," TOSAW SAID FRIDAY.

MOST AUTHORITIES DECIDED LONG AGO THE MAN NAMED ON PASSENGER LISTS AS DAN COOPER PROBABLY WAS KILLED WHEN HE PARACHUTED OUT OF A NORTHWEST AIRLINES BOEING 727 OVER SOUTHWEST WASHINGTON ON A RAINY THANKSGIVING EVE IN 1971 WITH $200,000 IN RANSOM STRAPPED TO HIS WAIST.

THE ONLY CONCRETE CLUES TO COOPER'S FATE SO FAR HAVE BEEN SOME TATTERED BILLS FROM THE RANSOM MONEY DUG UP ALONG THE SHORE OF THE COLUMBIA IN FEBRUARY 1980.

PAYNE, SKIPPER OF THE FISHING BOAT "MAGNUM," HAS HIRED BY TOSAW LAST MONTH TO DREDGE THE BOTTOM OF THE COLUMBIA BETWEEN PORTLAND AND VANCOUVER, Wash., IN THE PLANE'S FLIGHT PATH.

"HE'S BEEN MAKING THE RIVER WITH A 12-FOOT RAKE - HE CALLS IT A 'COOPER SNODDER' - FROM THE STEAM OF HIS BOAT," TOSAW SAID IN A PHONE INTERVIEW.

"HE GOES BACK AND FORTH RIGHT WHERE THE AIRPLANE FLEW OVER THAT NIGHT, AT THE TIP OF HAYDEN ISLAND IN THE COLUMBIA."

PAYNE FOUND THE NYLON, CORD AND BONE THURSDAY. HE SAID HE WILL LEAVE THE SIGNIFICANCE OF HIS FIND TO THE EXPERTS.

"IT'S SOMETHING, ANYWAYS," HE SAID. "IT'S DEFINITELY CANVAS, AND THAT NYLON CORD IS THE TYPE COOPER HAD. IT'S BEEN 11 YEARS, AND THIS STUFF LOOKED LIKE IT HAD BEEN THERE THAT LONG."

"WE'RE INTERESTED IN EXAMINING IT TO SEE IF THERE'S ANY INDICATION IT'S PART OF COOPER'S GEAR," TOSAW SAID. HE SAID HE WILL ASK EARL COSEY OF SEATTLE, WHO PACKED THE PARACHUTES USED BY COOPER, TO HELP DETERMINE ITS VALIDITY.

"THE BONE PROBABLY HAS NO CONNECTION AT ALL," TOSAW SAID. HE SAID IT IS NOT POSSIBLE TO CONFIRM THE IDENTITY OF A BONE, AND HE WAS NOT EVEN SURE IF IT WAS HUMAN.

A NORTHWEST LEGEND HAS GROWN AROUND COOPER, WHO PULLED OFF THE NATION'S ONLY UNSOLVED HIJACKING, TRIGGERING HEIGHTENED SECURITY PROCEDURES AT AIRPORTS THROUGHOUT THE COUNTRY.

SONGS HAVE BEEN WRITTEN AND T-SHIRTS PRINTED, WHILE RESIDENTS OF ARIZONA, WASH., IN THE AREA WHERE COOPER JUMPED, HOLD AN ANNUAL PARTY AND INVITE COOPER TO ATTEND. HE HAS YET TO DO SO.

1-21-82 01:41 AM

BY BARNEY LERTEN

(PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — The FBI has discounted any link between missing skyjacker D.B. Cooper and part of a parachute and other items scooped from the Columbia River.

"This item, if it's the olive-drab color you describe, has nothing to do with Cooper," FBI Agent Donvin Schreuder said Monday.

Schreuder and other agents looked at black-and-white photos of the dark piece of fabric.

The parachute part was found Saturday by charter boat captain Blake Payne, who returned to his Florence, Ore., home to await further instructions from former FBI agent Richard Tosah of Ceres, Calif., who is paying for the river search.

Schreuder said one of the four parachutes provided to Cooper along with $200,000 before the skyjacker leaped from a Northwest Airlines Boeing 727 on Thanksgiving Eve of 1971 was similar. But he said it was left behind on the plane and "was not one that he took with him."

Some of the money has been found on a bank of the Washington side of the Columbia River.

Last week Payne mailed Tosah a piece of nylon cord, a tattered piece of fabric and a bone he scooped from the Columbia River with a metal device called the "Cooper Snoper."

Schreuder, after viewing photos of the materials found by Payne, said, "They don't appear to be among the items" left by the legendary skyjacker.

Tosah is writing a book about Cooper. He surmised the fabric might be part of a bag stuffed with the $200,000 the skyjacker strapped to his waist before bailing out of the jetliner somewhere over southwest Washington.

Tosah said the cord might have come from one of the parachutes. He said Cooper might have been an ex-green beret who decided to use a military chute rather than the civilian one given to him because he would have been more familiar with it.

The hijack marked the world's first air piracy for ransom and remains the nation's only unsolved hijacking.

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — A CHARTER BOAT CAPTAIN ENGAGED IN A SEARCH OF THE COLUMBIA RIVER FOR LEGENDARY SKYJACKER D.B. COOPER MONDAY REPORTED FINDING A PIECE OF OLIVE-DRAB FABRIC THAT COULD BE PART OF A PARACHUTE.

"I'VE SEEN A COUPLE OF CHUTES BEFORE — THIS LOOKS LIKE ONE. IT'S GOT SILK IN IT; JUST LIKE A CHUTE HAS," SAID THE BOAT CAPTAIN, BLAKE PAYNE, WHO IS EMPLOYED BY RICHARD TOSAW, A CERES, Calif., ATTORNEY WHO PLANS TO WRITE A BOOK ABOUT THE SKYJACKING MYSTERY.

LAST WEEK, PAYNE MAILED TO TOSAW A PIECE OF NYLON CORD, A TATTERED PIECE OF FABRIC AND A BONE HE DREDGED FROM THE RIVER BOTTOM WITH A HEAVY METAL PAKE.

THE TWO MEN SUSPECTED THE FABRIC FOUND LAST WEEK MIGHT BE PART OF A MONEY BAG STUFFED WITH $200,000 THAT THE SKYJACKER STRAPPED TO HIS WAIST ON A RAINY THANKSGIVING EVE 1971 AS HE JUMPED FROM A NORTHWEST AIRLINES BOEING 727 OVER SOUTHWEST WASHINGTON.

THE CORD, PAYNE SAID, MIGHT HAVE COME FROM ONE OF FOUR PARACHUTES DEMANDED BY COOPER. THE CLOTH REPORTED MONDAY MAY ALSO BE FROM ONE OF THE PARACHUTES THE SKYJACKER HAD, HE SAID.

FBI AGENTS, HOWEVER, DISCOUNTED ANY LINK BETWEEN THE MATERIAL AND COOPER.

"THIS ITEM, IF IT'S THE OLIVE-DRAB COLOR YOU DESCRIBE, HAS NOTHING TO DO WITH COOPER," DORWIN SCHREUDER OF THE FBI'S PORTLAND OFFICE SAID AFTER HE AND OTHER AGENTS VIEWED BLACK-AND-WHITE PHOTOS OF THE DARK PIECE OF FABRIC.

PAYNE FOUND THE ITEM SATURDAY WHILE DREDGING THE RIVER BETWEEN OREGON AND WASHINGTON. HE WAS BACK IN HIS FLORENCE, Ore., HOME AWAITING FURTHER INSTRUCTIONS FROM TOSAW, A FORMER FBI AGENT WHO IS FUNDING THE RIVER SEARCH.

SCHREUDER SAID ONE OF THE FOUR PARACHUTES PROVIDED TO COOPER ALONG WITH $200,000 RAHEON BEFORE HE JUMPED FROM A NORTHWEST AIRLINES BOEING 727 ON A RAINY THANKSGIVING EVE IN 1971 WAS OF A SIMILAR NATURE BUT HAD BEEN LEFT BEHIND ON THE PLANE AND "WAS NOT ONE THAT HE TOOK WITH HIM."

SCHREUDER SAID HE COULD NOT DISCUSS UNPUBLISHED DETAILS ABOUT THE CASE IN ORDER TO PROTECT THE 11-YEAR-OLD INVESTIGATION. HOWEVER, AFTER VIEWING PHOTOS OF THE MATERIALS FOUND BY PAYNE, HE SAID "THEY DON'T APPEAR TO BE AMONG THE ITEMS" PROVIDED TO COOPER.

Investigation revealed that a [redacted] resides at [redacted] Murray, Utah. Identifying information on [redacted] was obtained from the Utah Department of Motor Vehicles which indicated that it was unlikely that [redacted] was identical with subject, since his age (date of birth [redacted]) and physical size (6'2", 215 pounds) did not match description given of subject. A physical observation of [redacted] revealed that he in no way resembles either the composite sketch of subject or the physical description given of subject. [redacted] denied being D.B. Cooper and stated he had lived in Salt Lake City all of his life. No Utah arrest record was located on him.

Since [redacted] is not identical with subject, no further investigation is being conducted in this matter.

Pursuit of D.B. Cooper leads — maybe — to class reunion

By DOUGLAS K. HABERLAND

Regional Editor

CELINA, Ohio — An innocent prank took a bizarre twist last month when the Celina Senior High School Class of 1968 gathered for its 15-year reunion.

Kip Wright, local probation officer and court bailiff and a co-chairman of the reunion, started the whole thing in October 1982, with an advertisement in the local newspaper to locate missing classmates. In addition to the real Class of '68, Wright added the name D.B. Cooper, just for fun.

D.B. Cooper was not a member of the Class of '68. Cooper, whose first name of Dan was reported erroneously as D.B., allegedly hijacked a Boeing 727 bound from Portland, Ore., to Seattle on Thanksgiving Eve, 1971. He said he had a bomb in a briefcase and demanded $200,000 and three parachutes when the plane reached Seattle.

His demands were met, and he ordered the jet flown to Reno, Nev. En route, Cooper parachuted out the rear door and into the wilderness north of Portland. Cooper's true identity remains a mystery and, though investigators suspect he is dead, the case is still open, according to Federal Bureau of Investigation spokesman Lane Bonner.

But to Wright's surprise, a middle-aged man showed up at the reunion and identified himself as D.B. Cooper. The mystery guest, who has not been seen or heard from since, mingled with graduates during the night, conversing on a wide range of topics while dodging any specifics about his actual identity.

His arrival was preceded by a series of postcards to Wright from across the country. His departure was quiet, unnoticed by the graduates of '68.

A month after the ad for classmates, Wright received a postcard addressed to him at the courthouse. Postmarked Nov. 5 in northern Virginia and Nov. 6 in Cincinnati, it read: "Why don't you mind your own business. I was perfectly happy living in obscurity in Mendon (Ohio). Now I'm on the move again. D.B. Cooper."

Other postcards followed: Nov. 8 from Poughkeepsie, N.Y.; Nov. 15 from Tampa, Fla.; Nov. 23 from Denver; and Dec. 18 from Eureka, Calif.

A sixth postcard, without a postmark, arrived in February. The signer wrote of fleeing California for Alaska and that, "Life was good in Mendon. I even miss the phone booth

At the reunion, an unidentified man, believed to be in his 50s, walked up to Mary Wright, who was issuing name tags, and identified himself as D.B. Cooper. She gave him a tag bearing that name.

"Cooper" made the rounds, Kip Wright said, shaking hands and greeting almost all of the 70 classmates attending.

He was one of the most interesting people Wright said he had ever met. The man could talk on a variety of subjects, gave intelligent answers, but never revealed anything about himself, though many tried to trap him.

Asked if his name was really D.B. Cooper, the mystery guest countered: If you planned to hijack a plane and make off with $200,000, would you use your real name? "I didn't," he said.

"He was very vague," never denying, never admitting his identity, Wright said. "I invited to be a part of the class picture." Cooper was enthusiastic and self-assured, Wright said.

"Does anybody know what D.B. Cooper looks like?" he was heard to say. He posed near the center of the first row.

Thursday, Wright said he discovered the picture had been picked up at the newspaper office by an elderly man claiming to be D.B. Cooper.

Asked to speak, "Cooper" gave a moving 20-minute talk on the loss of childhood innocence, involved in the music and visiting old friends, Wright said, he looked for "D.B." about 9:30 p.m., and he was gone. "No one saw him leave. He just disappeared."

Six weeks later, Wright has not heard another word.

Bonner of the FBI said the bureau was not aware of D.B. Cooper's appearance in Celina.

Though the FBI was not upset, Bonner said the bureau "would like to know about these things" since the case is still open.

The only tangible evidence found in the case was in February, 1980, when part of the money was unearthed along the Columbia River by a Venerable Mach family.

Then, the cards stopped. People got busy and more serious thoughts were given to plans for the reunion. "I thought it's pretty well over, it's ruined, course," Wright said.

But, it hadn't. On July 13, three days before the reunion, Mary Kable Wright, Kip's wife, also a '68 graduate, received a telegram. The message: "See you Saturday night. Wouldn't miss it. D.B. Cooper."

In the excitement, she forgot to ask where the telegram was from, and efforts to trace it were unsuccessful.

Two days later, $10 cash arrived from "D.B." for his reservation. The letter carried a Boston postmark.

Gentlemen:

Under the provisions of the Freedom of Information Act, 5 U.S.C. 552 I am requesting access to records on the 24 Nov. 1971 hijacking of Northwest flight 305 by Dan Cooper.

- 1- Are there any Complaint for Violation documents?
- 2- Are there any Statute of Limitations for this case.

If all or any part of this request is denied, please cite the specific exemptions which you think justifies your refusal to release the information, and inform me of the appeal procedures available to me under the law.

I would appreciate your handling this request as quickly as possible, and I look forward to hearing from you within 10 days, as the law stipulates.

Sincerely

it is very important to my research also. I have tried to get copies of the FBI Reports. and I would like to know ~~why~~ why. After 12 years they won't release them. Isnt there laws that say after so many years the hijacker can not be tried on the crime he ~~did~~ did?

Please note my change of Address and could you please send me a letter letting me know that you have received my letter and answering my few questions!

I have written a freedom of information act letter concerning the 24 Nov. 1971 hijacking of Northwest flight #305 by a man calling himself D.B. Cooper. The files and records I am interested would be in three places. The first would be in Washington State at Seattle-Tacoma since the hijacking started there. The second place would be at Portland Oregon, where the plane landed without the hijacker. The man jumped from the plane between Washington and Oregon. Lastly the third place would be the FBI in Washington D.C. They have seventy or eighty pages of news reports and files of documents on their investigation. I was sent a copy of all news reports and they were lost in a recent fire and I would like to get a new copy

Gentlemen:

Recently I saw a television program that concerned itself with the 12 year old skyjacking involving D. B. Cooper. This is the one that took place in the Pacific Northwest where the skyjacker bailed out of an airplane with $200,000.00.

While watching this show the program put the artist's sketch of Mr. Cooper's face on the screen numerous times. I am not sure if my mind is playing tricks on me or I am fantasizing, etc., however, if I could have a copy of that artist's sketch of Mr. D. B. Cooper and any other material concerning this incident which, of course, would have to be of public record, I would be able to put my mind at ease as to the fact that I may have or may not have ever met or known this person in my past.

I spent four (4) years in the United States Air Force and served in the Far East during the Korean conflict. I don't know if it was during this time, but at some time it seems I have seen this face.

Revelers set for annual toast to D.B. Cooper

By SALLY JAMES

The Columbian

ARIEL.— Every year it starts in September. The water gets too cold for the boaters at Lake Merwin near here, and less traffic goes by the country store/tavern.

Tavern owner Steve Fisher, 34, begins preparations for the job of the annual party he throws to celebrate the Northwest's criminal folk hero: D.B. Cooper.

He goes into a drawer, where the mailing list for the D.B. Cooper Fan Club is stored. There are 250 members, scattered around the United States, who are waiting to get their invitations.

Artist's sketch of D.B. Cooper.

In case you didn't get one, the doors open at 10 a.m. Saturday. The party will last until 2 a.m.

Ariel, the home of Merwin Dam, is about eight miles east of Woodland on state Highway 503.

Steve, and his wife, Laural, and their two children, Rhiannon and Jeff, moved to this lonely outpost to live behind the store and tavern about six years ago. With the business, they inherited the idea of the party. The first party was put on in 1976.

According to news accounts-turned-legend, Cooper boarded a plane in Portland Nov. 24, 1971, claimed to have a bomb, and demanded $200,000. After getting the money in Seattle, he parachuted out of the plane into the dark Southwest Washington forests and instant fame.

Ever since 1976, Ariel has thrown a wild party to commemorate the apparent success of the wily Cooper.

It costs about $1,500 to put on the party, and Steve won't say how much money he makes each year. But it sounds like a labor more of love than of capitalism.

Steve works part-time at a store about five miles from his own. His wife does piecework for a local woman who sells puppets.

"It takes money to make money," Steve said, admitting that he has had visions of grand profits.

He would like to start a D.B. paraphernalia mail-order business.

"I don't have the money for a good ad," Steve said.

Early in the fall, Steve sits down to think up a new design for the annual party T-shirt. On the 10th anniversary, in 1981, a black shirt sported a $20 bill with D.B.'s likeness in the center.

This year, Steve has ordered burgundy, black and navy blue shirts. Inside a briefcase depicted bulging with bills is written this ditty: "Some say DB was a thief. Others sit in somber grief. We think he's alive and well. Somewhere here in Ariel."

Most often, Steve sells out of the 100 or so shirts he prints. Collectors often arrive the day before the annual party, just to get shirts in mint condition.

For this weekend's affair, Steve invested $325 in building a stage in the tiny tavern adjoining the store.

Besides the usual stocking up on toilet paper and paper towels and garbage cans, and trucking in about 100 cases of beer, Steve also buys 25 pounds of hamburger and makes chili.

His crowds have numbered as high as 1,000.

A giant pot of chili is kept hot over an outdoor fire in front of the store to warm bystanders who watch the annual parachute demonstration by local skyjumpers. National and local press people begin telephoning as early as October, Steve said.

People sit at Steve's bar and tell him their versions of the Cooper myth.

"Someday I'd like to write a book on it," he said.

I knew hijacker D.B. Cooper, a writer claims

By Robert Macy

Associated Press

LAS VEGAS, Nev. — A dozen years ago this Thanksgiving D.B. Cooper — laden with parachutes and $10,000-$20 bills — inched his way down the rear stairway of a 727 jet and plunged into the turbulent Oregon skies, the history books and oblivion.

Now a Las Vegas writer says Cooper was actually a Missouri con man, and government informant named Jack Coffelt who took the secrets of that stormy November night to his grave four years later.

Byron Brown says he and his father, James Brown, a cellmate of Coffelt's at the federal penitentiary in Atlanta in the 1950s, accompanied the self-proclaimed hijacker to Oregon in 1974 in a futile search for the $200,000.

Brown says the FBI is ignoring Coffelt as the mystery skyjacker despite two eyewitness accounts because Coffelt spent half his adult life in prison, the other half in gray areas working as a government agent.

FBI agents who have worked the case since the chilly night of Nov. 24, 1971 discount Brown's story. But they admit Coffelt ranks "in the top 20" of 933 Cooper candidates.

The twilight hours

Cooper has been an enigma to law officers, something of a romantic hero to the public since he tied the sack of money around his waist, strapped parachutes to his chest and back, and plunged from the rear stairway of Northwest Airlines Flight 305. It remains America's only unsolved hijacking.

The incident began in the twilight hours at Portland International Airport when a man listed on the manifest as Dan Cooper boarded the Boeing 727 with 36 other passengers and a crew of six.

As 305 began its 30-minute hop to Seattle, Cooper gave stewardess Florence Schaffner a note saying he had a dynamite bomb in his attaché. He demanded $200,000 and four parachutes. She rode next to the hijacker during the brief flight and has said 1954 prison photos of Coffelt, plus later photos taken by Brown, bear a striking resemblance to the elusive Cooper.

Seattle attorney George LeBissoniere, who sat three rows from Cooper and at one time stood next to the hijacker and the stewardess, also saw Coffelt's pictures and described them as "the closest thing I'd ever seen" to the mystery man.

In Seattle, Cooper let the passengers and two stewardesses disembark. Three crewmen and stewardess Tina Mucklow remained. Once the money and parachutes were on board, the plane headed south for a refueling stop in Reno before continuing to Cooper's announced destination — Mexico.

Retired FBI agent Ralph Himmelsbach, of Portland, who spent thousands of hours in pursuit of Cooper, recounted the incident in a recent telephone interview.

"He had trouble getting the stairway open. Then he was looking out in the dark, the wind blowing like Billy Hell. It took a lot of time to work up his guts."

Faulty parachute

Coffelt told Brown that as he descended the rear staircase in blinding cold rain, turbulence jolted the plane and pitched him into the boiling clouds before he could sight a beacon marking a spot where a partner was waiting for him.

Coffelt talked of tumbling through the stormy sky, trying frantically to open a faulty parachute on his back, then dropping the money as he grabbed for a chute on his chest.

Coffelt told Brown he crashed to the ground in a canyon miles from his planned landing spot, severely injuring his legs. He was later able to rendezvous with his unidentified partner, but neither he, his partner, the Browns or an army of authorities ever found the loot.

In view of the fact that this individual was in his mid 30's in 1972, he is not old enough to be the hijacker in this particular case, and no further investigation is being conducted.

[Redacted] february 14th, 1974,

Sincere apologies for my procrastination of around three years duration (got your first letter before we left the States in June '71). Thanks to your unending perserverence, I am at long last answering your many letters.

To answer your most recent letter first...No a birth chart for [redacted] has not been done although the designer of the Coat of Arms did indicate that the zodiac symbols he used were astrologically relevant. The secession document was received by [redacted] in his morning mail at approximatley 10.00AM on April 21, 1971 in Canberra., Australian Capital Territory. I'm sure a birth chart on [redacted] would be very gratefully received.

For your amusement, I was born at 2.00AM on [redacted] at the [redacted] My investiture as [redacted] was at [redacted] on [redacted] and approximately 1.30PM I was dubbed with the sword by [redacted]
To my knowledge, [redacted] Princess Grace of Monaco.
Now you should know just what sort of character I am.

The suggestion for a stamp issue featuring constellations over [redacted] may very likely be considered at some future date. Indeed the stars are big and bright over [redacted] our skies are so clear and free of air polution that a group of scientists are considering establishing a solar energy intitute at the Province.

Enclosed are several order forms for the first issue of stamps. All items listed are still available including 1st Day Covers. This is extended as a courtesy to overseas stamp collectors who have been unable to communicate with the [redacted] due to the mail embargo imposed by the Australian P.O. since early November, 1973. At this stage, due to this embargo it would be impossible to receive a letter through the international mail services direct from the [redacted]. Until this illegal embargo is lifted emergency mail service is in effect until further notice. Australia is delivering our mail within the continent of Australia only and refuses to transfer any international mail. The mail from [redacted] carries a [redacted] stamp affixed to the front side cancelled on the day of receipt from the sender. It is then transferred to the A.P.O.

an Australian stamp is affixed under protest, then the letter is delivered, after close scrutiny and examination by the Perth Mail Exchange, approximately two weeks after the initial cancellation. At the present time the A.P.O. refuses point blank to cash any Postal Money Orders from anywhere, including Australia. They also refuse to turn over International Money Orders directed to the [redacted]. This is illegal under Article 12 of the United Nations Human Rights Act to mention only one infraction.

b7C

The Royal Justice Society of Australia has just released an article in their official journal stating that the Australian P.O. Department is completely out of order in their decisions and actions taken against the [redacted] by imposing illegal irresponsible acts of aggression, because prior to the 15th Nov. 1973 mail was made available to the address of [redacted] Western Australia, therefore they set a precedent which is irreversible under judicial entitlement.

b6
b7C

Because of the fluctuation of the US $Dollar, prices quoted in the order forms are in Australian dollars. By simply asking your local banker the current exchange rate can easily be ascertained.

Any copies of news articles pertaining to [redacted] would be appreciated as it's impossible to keep up with the publicity we receive overseas.

b6
b7C

Please find enclosed some duplicate parachute stamps; take what you can use if any and return the balance. The newsletter to parachute collectors sounds like a great idea. I'm looking forward to receiving my first copy.

My first parachute jump was way back in 1960. I served in the US Armed Forces from [redacted] as Airborne Special Forces. During that time I was an active member in around [redacted] sport parachute clubs throughout the World. My highest license applied for was Class [redacted]. I've been an inactive parachutist for the past 8 years now. No, I didn't do any smoke jumping with the park service. I applied but there was a 2 year waiting list so never got around to it.

b7C

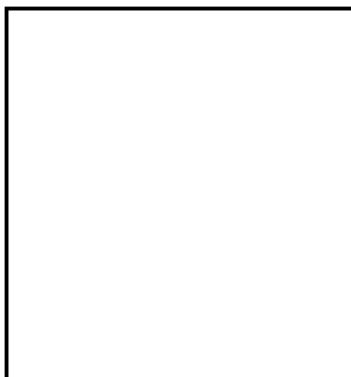

Thank you for your interest in [redacted]. Hoping to have a more two-sided correspondence in the future.

b6
b7C

yours sincerely

ADMINISTRATION BOARD

PRINCIPALITY.

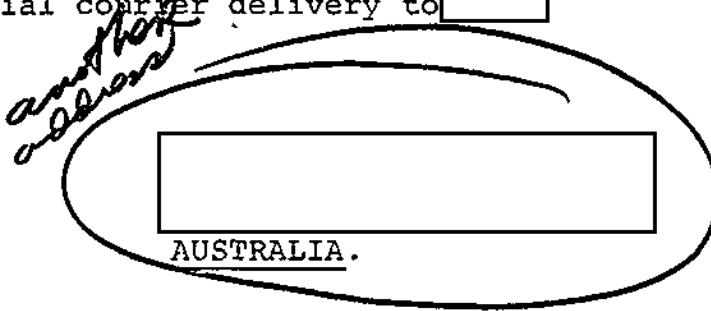

SPECIAL MEMORANDUM ON EMERGENCY MAIL SERVICES:

The General Post Office advises that because of the current unfortunate political situation, under which certain neighbouring lands have cut off communications for the most part with the outside world, mail either to or from [redacted] may not be sent directly via the international postal services.

Until further notice, correspondents abroad writing to addresses in [redacted] should send such mail, under cover and in an independent outer cover, to the following addresses for special courier delivery to [redacted]

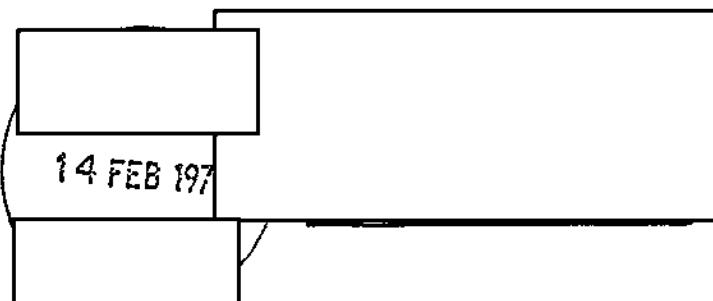

AUSTRALIA.

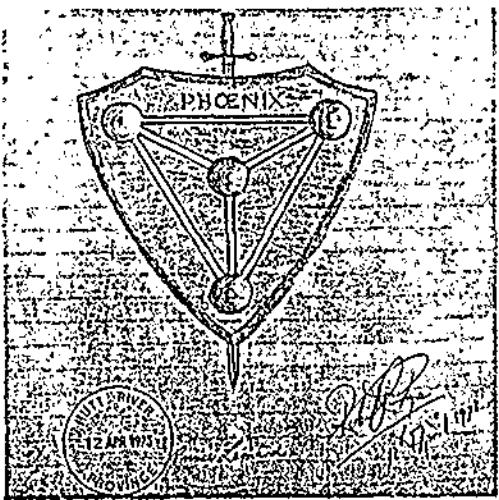

Return mail to the outside world will likewise be routed through these agencies.

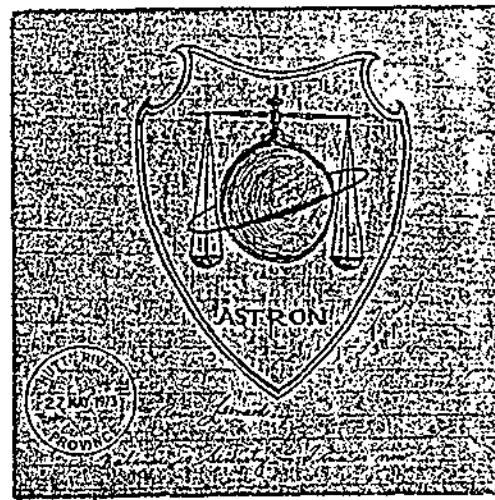

Will you please see that this notice comes to the attention of all postal staff and that it is made known also to the public. Meanwhile, kindly direct all mail for [redacted] to the West Australian agencies.

This notice and arrangement will remain operative until further notice.

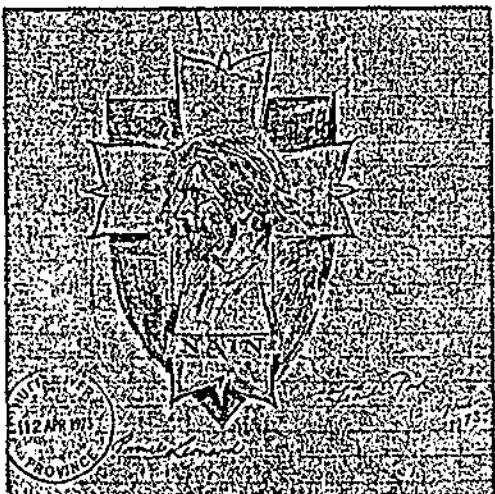

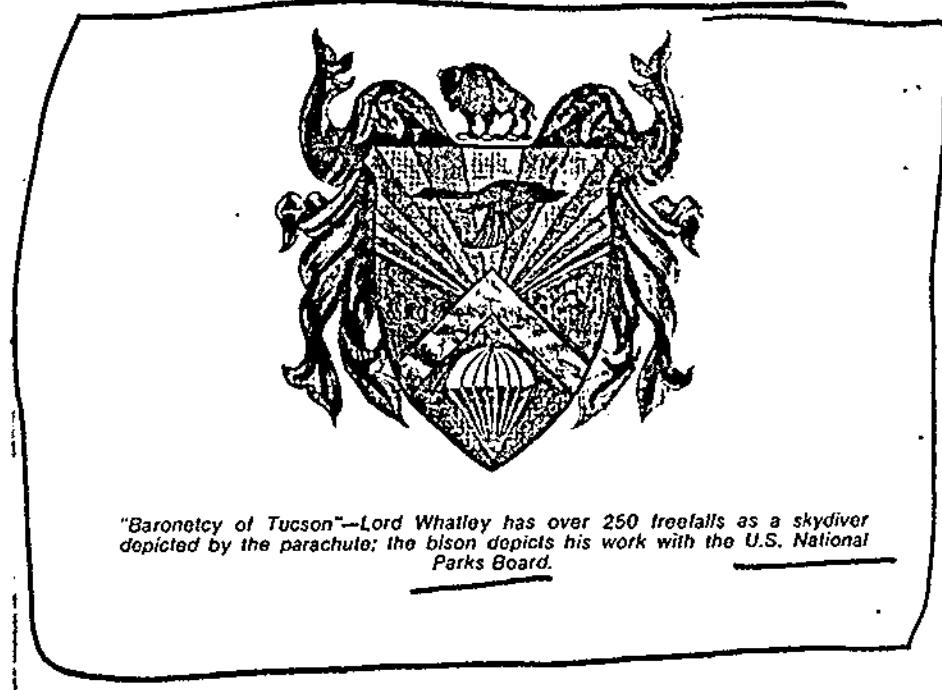

"Earldom of Phoenix"—A symbol of the Tetrahedron portrays the universal harmonic strength of binding force.

"Earldom of Astron"—The Coat-of-Arms portrays the universal serenity of balance.

"Earldom of Nain"—The village of Nain is known Biblically for the raising of the widow's son. The Coat-of-Arms portrays the cross and portrait of Jesus.

"Baronetcy of Tucson"—Lord Whatley has over 250 freefalls as a skydiver depicted by the parachute; the bison depicts his work with the U.S. National Parks Board.

Certificates

A special Certificate was brought out for giving of Appointments, expressing to a person any high degree of gratitude, or for a special invitation.

To express our pleasure for the comfort and attentions received on the Ansett ANA flight which took Prince Leonard and Princess Shirley to South Australia for their first Royal Visit to that State, on behalf of the Province Prince Leonard gave Certificates to the crew and hostesses aboard.

Certificates of bestowal or investiture of peerages or Knighthoods are also issued following the official act.

Appointments

We quote from Robert Drewe in his column "Perspective" in The Australian of Friday, August 17, 1973:

"In a quietly impressive ceremony near Adelaide yesterday our favourite royal family, Prince Leonard and Princess Shirley of Hutt River Province, appointed Angle Vale Wineries official suppliers of wines to the Royal Household.

"This is the first such honour bestowed by the Royal Family on a company since they seceded... in 1970.

"After touring the vineyard and winery the Prince and Princess, who are in Adelaide on a Royal visit, conferred the honour on Pat Auld, Angle Vale's managing director."

A line of eight wines has been commissioned thus far.

Sir Richard Marshall was appointed as Consul pro tem pending official acceptance of his credentials. Meanwhile Sir Richard is representing the Province in South Australia. The Provincial Flag is being flown at the Consulate where Sir Richard is in residence.

Honours Bestowed

Four peerages were created in 1973 and are in accordance with the Book of Peerage of the Hutt River Province. These were the expression of a desire to give some recognition to these people who not only had contributed or had qualities worthy of high recognition, but were also extremely active in advising us on many subject matters. Thus when considering giving such recognition the fact that an Earl is categorised as an advisor made it quite appropriate to bestow three of these people with Earldoms. The Earldoms created are:

"Earldom of Phoenix" was bestowed upon Robert David Pope on 12th April, 1973.

Mount Secession is in an area of land which is designated as the Earldom of Phoenix. This rock outcrop predominates the whole of the central valley of this Principality.

"Earldom of Nain" was bestowed upon Frank Burrill Pash on 12th April, 1973.

The Chapel of Nain is in an area of land designated as the Earldom of Nain which is situated in a prominent position looking out over the central valley. Perhaps God may have blessed this Chapel, of which more is written elsewhere in this booklet.

"Earldom of Astron" was bestowed upon Margaret Amelia Isobel Sheen on 27th May, 1973.

Lake Serenity, a small lake on the higher elevations of the Province, is in an area designated as the Earldom of Astron. On this lake gather water birds of various species, enjoying the serenity of their sanctuary. At times mankind must envy some of the serenity of nature which he himself does not always capture.

"Baronetcy of Tucson" was bestowed upon John Steven Whatley on 15th November, 1973. Lord Whatley is a United States citizen and is Postmaster General of this Principality.

The Valley of Tucson, in which a lake is proposed to be formed, constitutes the Barony.

THE HUTT RIVER PROVINCE

Seceded from the Australian Commonwealth the 21st April, 1970, the sovereignty of this independent state is by judicial law invested with the Government in occupancy, the Administration Board which has bestowed the title of Prince on Leonard George Casley, The Administrator.

The Capital of this independent sovereign state is developing within the 29 square mile area of the Principality of the Hutt River Province located some 60 miles north of Geraldton and 28 miles northwest of Northampton, Western Australia.

Buildings already completed in the building program which is well under way are The Administration Building and Hutt River Province Post Office, the twin Gift Shops divided by a covered breezeway, the Restaurant/Tavern, a five-unit Motel, and the non-denominational Chapel of Nain which was blessed 29th August, 1973 by the Rev. F. W. Catley, Rector of the Northampton Anglican Church. Two christenings have been conducted in the brief period since the opening of this Chapel.

A horse riding academy is being formed with the aim of having a stable of 20 horses.

Construction of a swimming pool has been completed.

There are about 30 now in residence, but the flow of tourists reaching as many as 2,000 in one week creates much greater activity than this number would indicate. Overnight accommodations are in the planning stages for early completion.

All development of the Principality, both residential and industrial is being carried out subject to consideration of Ecology and the Environment first. There is an abundance of wildflowers. Kangaroos, water birds, emus, bustards, etc. are also here. Preservation of these flora and fauna is of prime importance to the Administration Board, as well as the residents of the Province.

The Principality has its own Coat-of-Arms, flag, Postal Department with Provincial postage stamps, visas, wines commissioned for the Royal Family bottled by Angle Vale Wines of South Australia, etc.

Social Services such as Child Endowment are provided by the Government in occupancy, these services having been relinquished by the Commonwealth of Australia Social Services Department to the Government occupancy effective from the date of secession.

All new buildings are being designed to have paintings and other art items as an integral part of the structures. All works on display thus far are by Western Australian artists. It is the desire of the Government in occupancy to encourage local artists. To this end an Art College is planned for construction in the near future.

Honors Lists thus far include three Earldoms, One Barony, and six Knighthoods. Others are under consideration as people from outside the Principality give valued assistance and advice, both to the Government in occupancy and to various important services and activities outside the Principality.

For further details you may secure the official publication, "THE BIRTH OF A PRINCIPALITY" at the Gift Shop in the Province or by writing to: The Administrator, Hutt River Province, C/- 10 Lockhart St., Como, Western Australia 6152, enclosing $2.00 Aust. which includes surface postage within Australia.

BACKGROUND

On November 24, 1971 a lone white male boarded NORTHWEST ORIENT Flight #305 at Portland, Oregon. While the flight was enroute to Seattle he indicated that he had a bomb and demanded $200,000.00. The plane landed in Seattle and the hijacker was given four parachutes and $200,000.00. The passengers were released and after the plane took off the hijacker, who had registered at Portland as Dan Cooper, parachuted from the plane near Woodland, Washington.

INVESTIGATION TO BE CONDUCTED

None.

PROSECUTIVE STATUS

AUSA [redacted] has advised that inasmuch as at the time unsub hijacked the plane the crime was a capital offense there is no statute of limitations in this matter. [redacted] advised that the Department of Justice concurred with his opinion.

JN 164A-181

While individuals working and having daily contact with [redacted] have positively identified an artist's conception drawing of UNSUB, it is difficult, due to extensive time frame between incident and this date, to positively ascertain if [redacted] is the UNSUB in this matter.

If warranted, additional investigation as to [redacted] background in the [redacted] and as to treatment [redacted] in late 1971 can be verified if necessary, but it is felt sufficient similarities exist to warrant contacting victims of said hijacking in order to attempt positive identification.

Efforts to identify or eliminate [redacted] as the UNSUB via fingerprint comparison have not been conclusive. While the Latent Fingerprint Section has compared [redacted] prints to those latents from NORJACK, it is unknown if the latents on file are those of the UNSUB of captioned matter.

LEADS:

SEATTLE DIVISION

AT SEATTLE, WASHINGTON

Will contact victims of hijacking, NORTHWEST AIRLINES, Flight #350, Portland, Oregon, to Seattle, Washington, and allow them to view photographs of [redacted] [redacted] in a photo display situation in an attempt to make positive identification or elimination of [redacted] as subject in captioned matter.

1. 1,525 to 1,532 yards east from Ariel Dam.
2. 189 to 225 yards from the south side of Lake Merwin north, and
3. around 746 yards from the north side of Lake Merwin south.

Hopefully this will be enough information to try and locate the treasure. If I can be of further assistance, please let me know.

Ex-agent hopes to get D.B. Cooper with Cadillac of fish-finders'

PORTLAND (UPI) — A former FBI agent is betting that computerized sonar equipment will enable him to find legendary sky-jacker D.B. Cooper, who disappeared by parachuting from an airliner on a rainy Thanksgiving Eve 13 years ago with $200,000 in ransom.

Richard T. Tosaw traveled to an area west of Portland with what he terms the "Cadillac of fish-finders" this fall to scan the bottom of the Columbia River, where he is certain Cooper drowned with the heavy load of $20 bills on Nov. 24, 1971.

"It will show fish 6 inches from the bottom," Tosaw said of the sonar equipment. "It will show Cooper."

Tosaw, a Ceres, Calif., lawyer who wrote a book on Cooper, recently tried out the equipment in the waters off the Fazio Ranch west of Vancouver, Clark County, where $5,800 of the Cooper loot was found on Feb. 10, 1980.

The bills in three packets were the only ones ever recovered.

"Cooper is near where the money was found," said Tosaw, who left the FBI years before Cooper's escapade.

The FBI agents who investigated the accident speculated Cooper's jump from the Northwest Airlines Boeing 727 landed him in a thickly wooded area south of Mount St. Helens, but Tosaw disagrees.

His view is that the crew was not able to pinpoint the route that well while traveling at a lower than normal altitude and with the landing gear down, flaps lowered and back door open as Cooper had ordered.

Tosaw thinks the plane was over the Columbia River when Cooper jumped.

Cooper boarded the plane in Portland for Seattle and en route showed stewardess Florence Schaffner a briefcase containing red sticks with wires leading to a battery, which he said was a bomb. He demanded $200,000 in used bills in a knapsack, two baby parachutes and two chest parachutes.

The crew landed at SeaTac Tacoma Airport, where Cooper allowed the passengers to leave and the plane was refueled while Northwest officials scurried to get the money.

After the plane left SeaTac and started south under Cooper's direction, he told the three stewardesses to go into the cockpit.

Tosaw says of the crime: "There's a folklore aura about it. People secretly rooted for him to make it, to beat the system. It was a somewhat daring leap — though stupid."

D.B. COOPER'S LEGACY

Filling the Northwest appetite for mystery

It is doubtful that the skyjacker known as D.B. Cooper ever imagined that he'd be honored at an annual party 13 years after he disappeared into the night with $200,000 and a parachute.

Most law-enforcement officials and aviation experts believe Cooper died in that leap from a Northwest Airlines 727 he hijacked in Seattle on Thanksgiving eve, 1971. About $5,800 of his ransom money was found on a bank of the Columbia River near Vancouver four years ago.

But each year at the Ariel Store and Tavern's annual D.B. Cooper Party in southern Cowlitz County, there is talk that he might even be among the celebrants. They numbered about 1,200 this past weekend. It is the stuff folk of which folk lore is made.

Cooper, of course, was not a hero. He was a criminal! But the mystery around him continues to fascinate.

Much like other Northwest-spawned mysteries, such as Sasquatches and UFOs. Mostly, it is harmless fascination.

Romanticists will remember him as some sort of Robin Hood of the skies. Realists will remember him as the skyjacker who triggered airport-security measures that have made all of us safer.

Hijacker D.B. Cooper's anniversary revives the mystery and the cheers

By Ed Penhale

P-I Reporter

Glasses will be raised today to toast the legend of D.B. Cooper, the parachute-packing skyjacker who jumped from an airliner with $200,000 in ransom 13 years ago and disappeared into stormy skies over the Columbia River.

At the Ariel Store and Tavern 10 miles east of Woodland, Wash., up to 1,200 people are expected to drop by — that's how many signed the guest book last year — for the Ninth Annual D.B. Cooper Party.

Retired FBI agent Ralph Himesbach of Portland, Ore., who spent thousands of hours trying to solve the nation's only unsolved skyjacking case, will travel to Seattle to commiserate at the annual D.B. Cooper "Debacle."

The "debacle" is a gathering of the 318th Fighter Interceptor Squadron, based at McChord Air Force Base, that scrambled a pair of F-106 fighter planes on Nov. 24, 1971, in a futile attempt to track the fabled skyjacker.

In California, another former FBI agent will be working on his scheme to find the skyjacker's remains, and the ransom money, on the bottom of the Columbia River.

Still some calls

"It's still a pending investigation, but there's not much to do," Special Agent Dick Thurston of the FBI in Seattle said yesterday. "We handle leads that come up. Occasionally, we get some calls."

They're mostly from people who've seen someone resembling the FBI sketch of Cooper, who is in his mid-to-late 50s if he's still alive.

FBI agents who investigated the case don't think Cooper survived.

"But hope springs eternal" in the beer suds at the Ariel tavern on the anniversary date of Cooper's jump from Northwest Airlines Flight 305. "Ninety-five percent of the people at the party don't think he got killed," but that might be wishful thinking," said tavern owner Dave Fisher, president of the 400-member D.B. Cooper Fan Club.

Fisher has turned the anniversary party into a bash complete with rock bands, chili dinner, prizes and T-shirts emblazoned with a cartoon of the never-seen-again skyjacker dropping by parachute with $20 bills floating around him.

"Every year there are people at the party who think Cooper's there, too," said Fisher. "Up until a couple of years ago, there were FBI agents coming to the party. They're easy to spot. They don't look like they fit in."

But Cooper, in investigator Himesbach's view, is long dead, his remains literally swallowed up by wildlife in the woods or crayfish in the river.

"As an investigator, you have to keep your mind open," said Himesbach, who now works for the Oregon State Department of Justice. "But when that little boy found that money in the river bank, I figured he (Cooper) lost his life."

D.B. Cooper, last "seen" in his 1973 FBI sketch, would be in his middle-to-late 50s.

164-81-8786

CCW 11

FBI/DOJ

DB Cooper-19673

About $5,800 of the Cooper loot was found Feb. 10, 1980, in the Columbia River bank near Vancouver by Brian Ingram, then 8, of Vancouver, who was digging in the sand with a stick during a family outing.

Himmelbach said Cooper wasn't really prepared for the escapade that began at Portland International Airport on Thanksgiving Eve when a man listed on the manifest as "Dan Cooper" boarded the Boeing 727 with 36 passengers and a crew of six for a short hop to Seattle.

Once airborne, "Cooper" gave stewardess Florence Schaffner a note saying he had a dynamite bomb in his attache case. He demanded $200,000 in used bills and four parachutes.

Planned to parachute

The airplane landed at Sea-Tac Airport, where Cooper allowed the passengers to leave. The plane was refueled while airline officials hurried to get the money.

Cooper said he wanted to go to Mexico, but intended to "parachute from the plane as soon as it cleared the airport," according to Himmelbach.

He jumped from the rear stairs well of the plane after telling the pilot to keep the aircraft at 10,000 feet with the flaps down 15 degrees and the landing gear extended. That kept the airliner's speed at just below 200 miles an hour, indicating Cooper knew something about what he was doing, the former FBI agent said.

But the skyjacker was wearing only a business suit and street shoes when he jumped into a freezing rainstorm with a small-diameter emergency parachute that guaranteed a hard landing. The temperature was seven degrees below zero outside the plane.

"That wasn't a very intelligent thing to do and it tells me he didn't know much about parachuting," said Himmelbach.

In Ceres, Calif., Richard T. Tosaw, a former FBI agent, thinks Cooper is dead, too. But Tosaw, who's written a book about the skyjacking, believes he will find Cooper's skeleton strapped in a parachute at the bottom of the Columbia.

On Feb. 1, said Tosaw, he's going to take up residence where part of Cooper's ransom money was found, six miles downstream on the Columbia, from the Interstate 5 bridge. He'll search the river bottom with computerized sonar equipment so good that "you could throw a mayonnaise jar in a hundred feet of water and it'll find it."

On 2/7/85, [redacted] was interviewed at the residence of his daughter, [redacted] Alameda, California, who was present during the interview. [redacted] resides at [redacted] Alameda, California, phone [redacted] was most cooperative during the interview.

[redacted] was very surprised by the fact that FBI agents wanted to speak with him concerning an aircraft hijacking. He initially did not recall D.B. COOPER or the 1971 aircraft hijacking, but after several minutes of discussion, he recalled that a hijacking occurred somewhere in the northwest years ago. [redacted] advised that the only time he has ever been in the Seattle, Washington area was during his service in the U.S. Navy many years ago.

[redacted] advised that he enlisted in the U.S. Navy in [redacted] and attended school for two years before beginning preflight school in [redacted]. He then became a Navy pilot flying both prop and jet aircrafts. He remained in the military until [redacted] when he was discharged. He stated he had no background in sky diving, but qualified that by stating that he did eject from a disabled jet on one occasion while in the Navy. In the course of his training at flight school, he advised that all pilots receive training that simulates parachuting from a plane. This was his only experience in the use of a parachute.

"communication because I have found it to be very safe and efficient. I am making three tapes at once. One for you. One for me and one for my lawyer. The reason for this tape is to see if I can expedite our negotiations on what we discussed at the Billings airport. At this point, [redacted] I would like to state that I will review this tape and I may edit part of it, parts of it, so if you find some blank spots, you will know why. First I will tell you what I want in this business transaction, then I'll explain why I think it is reasonable. What I want is for the ATA to make a five year 1.5 million dollar interest free loan to [redacted]

[redacted] which is a company that I am just starting and, uh, I believe that you'd be able to utilize me in other parts after this. I'll explain that later. Anyhow, at the end of five years, you can have your 1.5 million dollars back. This loan will cover my telling you how I would do exactly what I have told you I can and for the period of five years, you will have the guarantee of my son, plus my security form of work on a way to prevent what I described from happening. The 1.5 million will only cover this particular problem. I hope you would see fit to use my security form on other problems and if so, they would be handled on an individual basis. The reason I mention this, is the big mistake you made in underestimating me at the Billings airport. I want you to know that I knew what I was doing and also I knew just how big a fish was in the net. I am sure you know that I had you in my net. By the way, if your recording of our conversation didn't turn out, I will let you listen to mine. It came out great. Anyhow, at that point, I could have taken you down very easy and if the airlines would pay one and a half million for a plane load of people, what would they pay for you. Do you get my point? I had you and your men covered before we started talking. If you have any doubts, I'll give you a couple things here that might help ya. When we were setting down in the chair in the lobby down there by your ticket counter, a guy in the wine-colored shirt that walked in front of us while we were talking, turned around and went back towards the restaurant. That was my man. The fellow that uh, your locals man in charge of security, and I don't remember his name, the fellow that he was watching, the guy with the beard that was taking all of those pictures around the airport, he was one of my men. I had other men there too covering but I'm not going to go into all that. I'm quite sure you get the drift of it. (Pause) I set you up for two reasons, [redacted] First, I wanted to get your attention. I wanted you to give some credance to what I was sayin. I want you to know I can do what I say I can do. That is the second reason I want you to know I can do what I say I can do, so if I tell you I know how to hijack a plane load of people and walk away with one and a half million dollars, in untraceable, and underline untraceable, untraceable money, believe me I can do just that. I believe that I can, uh, sum up your and my options here pretty easy. Uh, let me first explain your options...as I see them. And, if I haven't covered them all, I'm sure you'll let me know if you have any others. First one would probably be the legal approach, uh, whatever you might try to do along those lines uh, I talked to the Federal people before I talked to you and I know that uh, what I'm offering you is on legal grounds. And if you approach me from the legal direction, all you gonna do is get publicity on this and I don't think you want that, and I don't see any need in it either. So, I think we can eliminate the legal approach. The second one is uh the possibility of just ignoring me and I'll go away, uh, I just, I don't need to explain that one uh I think that you know that that's not really a viable option and I'm sure you've already thought of that one. The third one and I hate to have to cover this one, but that's the way it's done nowadays, uh, is eliminate me. Now that ain't gonna work either. You know I'm not so dumb but what I've protected myself, I think you learned that. I've got myself protected pretty well against that possibility and if you should succeed, it'd be worse than dealing with me because uh, the way I've got it laid out, it'll all come out then. And the fourth one, and I believe this is your last option, is to deal with me. Now we got to reach a reasonable basis, uh, to handle this and uh, to uh, help reach that reasonable base, I will explain some of my options, now. First thing is, I want you to know that I know the value of what I have. I uh, might even be leaving quite a bit of money laying on the table on this deal, but that's don't make any difference to me. If I am, I don't want to even know about it. I know it's worth what I'm askin'. I know this much also. That's it's worth a helluva lot more on the international market. Then if somebody should happen to try this, they wouldn't be asking for a loan to start a security firm. They'd be asking for enough money probably to set up an army. So, uh, I'd rather not discuss this any further because that's, uh, an option I don't even want to think about. Uh, I can go to your insurance company and I can explain to them what I can do and I quite sure they'll believe me. If they'll believe me, uh, I would think your insurance rate will go up. Uh, don't want that option either. I uh, would hate to think of somebody comin' out with a how-to book on something like this cuz uh, now I'd rather not see it happen. Um, another thing is uh, like I told you, uh, as long as I have no contract I have no obligations and I can sit around and tell anybody about this and uh, we both know what the end result of that would be so there's no sense of me going into detail there. I think that the point we've reached right now, [redacted] is, uh, if you're a chess player, this is what we call checkmate. Now, uh, I think the best thing to do is, uh, Monday I'll go to my attorney and I'll have him draw up a contract on the loan and the exchange of the information and uh, as far as the exchange of information, we discussed this kind of and I don't think we came up with anything there but I'll tell you the way I see it as being is, uh, I will verbally, myself, personally, explain the procedure to the board of directors of the ATA and uh, I will see that that's in the contract. I, uh, also, will have in the contract, that this explanation will only be made after the loan is made and can't be recalled. Now, uh, there was another point I wanted to cover, [redacted] and that was the fact that you said to me this had been tried before and uh, I don't think I totally explained that aspect of it to your satisfaction when we were at the airport. Now, let me explain something to ya here, uh, this absolutely has not been tried before, the way I'm talking about doin' it, because if it had of, I, guarantee you, you could have not suppressed this from the news media and when I explain this to the board of directors, I believe that you will readily agree that what I'm saying is true. Uh, now I want to explain to you, [redacted] the part where I said at the beginning of this that I might edit part of it out. I don't uh, (inaudible) (U) motive in this and this is not to embarrass you at all. I think you made a big mistake at the airport when you were sitting there talking to me. I think you underestimated me considerably. Uh, if you want to delete that part and this part from this tape, then let me know that you've done that, I will not bring up that aspect at all before the board of directors. I'm not out to embarrass anybody. I just wanted you to understand I can do what I can say I can do and there is a damm chance I'll do just exactly that. So, let's not have any flim flam here or y trying to blame you with footwork or coercion, meaning you are scaring me, or whatever you think, I don't intimidate. I just want to get this deal consumated so I can go on to the rest of my life. Now, uh, I will put the contract before you. I will allow a period of time for your legal staff to look over, if there's some changes in it that you want, feel free to come back and talk about it. If it's a change I can live with, I'll be more than glad to. I want this to be fair as much as possible both ways but I'll also going to protect myself. I believe that just about covers it, [redacted] and I will try to put this tape on one of your planes headed back to you so you'll have it uh, maybe with a chance to review it before Monday and uh, I would appreciate it, uh, when you've reviewed it and made your decision, uh, give me a call. We can talk. Thank you.

Dear Mr. Dunbar:

This letter is to confirm a conversation with [redacted] [redacted] Assistant U. S. Attorney (AUSA), of your office and Special Agent (SA) [redacted] of the FBI on March 14, 1983, at which time the following information was discussed:

b6
b7C

On March 14, 1983, [redacted]
Yellowstone County Sheriff's Office, Billings, Montana, advised that he had received a cassette recording from an individual who wished not to be identified. The individual had recently purchased a cassette recorder from a local pawn shop and later found that the recorder contained a cassette with a statement made by a person who identified himself as [redacted]

b6
b7C

On the tape, [redacted] refers to a meeting he had with an [redacted] in Minneapolis and [redacted] [redacted] of the Airline Transportation Association with Northwest Orient Airlines. This meeting was held in the Logan Airport lobby and consisted of [redacted] asking the airline officials for 1.5 million dollars in a loan for developing a security system. [redacted] was advised that the airlines were not interested and the meeting was terminated.

b6
b7C

On February 10, 1983, airline officials again met with [redacted] with the intention of discussing airline security; however, [redacted] proceeded to advise airline officials of a hijacking scenario that he had planned. yes

On March 14, 1983, [redacted]
Northwest Airlines, telephonically advised that he had listened to a copy of the tape obtained from [redacted] and that from information on the tape, it was obvious to him that the tape was made after the first meeting with [redacted]

[redacted] He also advised that he was present at both meetings with [redacted] and [redacted] mental attitude had changed considerably from the first time they met until the second time. He described the second meeting with [redacted] as being more relaxed and [redacted] seemed much calmer.

[redacted] also expressed a concern over any action that might take place against [redacted]

The above information was supplied to AUSA [redacted] on March 14, 1983, at which time, AUSA [redacted] advised that he did not feel that the information obtained, as of this date, was sufficient to charge [redacted] with any criminal violation, and specifically, extortion.

In view of the above, no further investigation is being conducted at this time.

Was the Columbia D.B. Cooper's river of no return?

The Daily News and AP

A former FBI agent has renewed his search for the body of fabled hijacker D.B. Cooper, who parachuted from the back of a Northwest Orient 727 nearly 14 years ago with $200,000 in cash.

Richard Tosaw, an attorney and author from California, has hired a diver to conduct a systematic search of the Columbia River upstream from where $5,800 of Cooper's loot was found on a beach in 1980.

The diver, Elden Eichler, said Thursday he was concentrating his search on obvious places where traces of the man who gave his name as Dan Cooper might be found.

But Tom Manning of Longview, who was the local FBI agent at the time, said he thinks Cooper drowned in Lake Merwin.

"I still feel that Cooper is in Lake Merwin," said Manning, who knows Tosaw and has read his book about Cooper. "That's my theory and I have no way to substantiate that."

After closing the local FBI office in 1977, Manning worked as executive director of the Longview Chamber of Commerce. He now does contract investigative work for the federal office of personnel management.

The name "D.B. Cooper" was reported as the incident unfolded Thanksgiving Eve 1971, and stuck as the legend grew.

The hijacking was the first attempted solely for money, and the true identity of the hijacker, and his fate, remain a mystery.

Eichler said Thursday he is looking for signs of Cooper's body, his loot or the nylon parachute he used. But he said his weeklong search has been fruitless.

"So far," he said, "I've come up with absolutely nothing."

Eichler said his search would continue through the weekend. He said he would be aided by fellow diver James S. White, who helped with the search in its early stages last weekend.

A Vancouver, Wash., boy found a dozen stacks of $20 bills that were part of Cooper's loot in 1980 during a family outing at a Columbia River beach a few miles downstream from Vancouver.

The cash is the closest investigators have come to solving the mystery.

Tosaw, who was not involved in the case during his tenure as an FBI agent, has written a book about the case and has been looking for Cooper off and on for years.

Tosaw has placed classified advertisements offering rewards for Cooper and his loot, and has hired others to search the river for traces of the hijacker.

Eichler said he and Tosaw agree it's likely Cooper wound up in the river after he jumped.

from the rear of the airplane on the evening of Nov. 24, 1971. The weather was stormy and the hijacker was dressed in a business suit, leading investigators to doubt he survived the ordeal.

Cooper passed a note to the pilot, threatening to set off a bomb if his demands were not met, shortly after the airplane took off from Portland.

He released the passengers and two crew members in Seattle and took four parachutes and the $200,000 aboard. He then ordered the airplane to Reno, Nev.

When the airplane landed in Reno, Cooper and his loot were gone.

Review of this matter with former Case Agent [redacted] determined that no seats were missing from the hijacked 727 aircraft. It is the reporting Agent's personal knowledge obtained through [redacted] training and through having flown 727 aircraft, that there are no interior paneled areas on a 727 which would provide enough room for a person to hide in.

Accordingly, no further investigation is being conducted to locate [redacted]

Enclosed to each recipient are two copies of [redacted] [redacted] driver's license photograph and computer developed background information.

This matter was initiated upon receipt of a telephone call from [redacted] Apache Junction, Arizona, who advised she was in the [redacted] who she said was D. B. COOPER, the skyjacker. She said that they had seen the movie about D. B. COOPER and [redacted]. She said he now lives at the [redacted] and she said that he [redacted] the hijacking. The [redacted] he lives in [redacted] is in Apache Junction, Arizona.

Subsequent efforts to develop background through Police checks and auto licenses and spot checks of the address, were unsuccessful and on 9/13/85, [redacted] was interviewed away from her residence after interview was telephonically prearranged.

She advised she now lived at [redacted] [redacted] Apache Junction, Arizona, and [redacted] same address and was building the house.
